THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

ALUMNI AND FRIENDS:

ALUMNI DAY IS SATURDAY, MAY 31.

We'll be here to shake your hand and say a cheery "hello" when you arrive to celebrate Alumni Day and the other week-end activities. Come for the performance of "Family Portrait" on Friday evening if you possibly can. It's wonderful, you'll be inspired and we'll grant you will be more than proud of our Lycoming Players.

A full schedule of activities is planned for Saturday and Sunday as you can see by the programme. Reuniting classes this year are: 1902, 1907, 1912, 1917, 1922, 1927, 1932, 1937, 1942, 1947, and 1951. But, of course, we want you all to come. The classes holding reunions are especially anxious to have present for this occasion members of other classes who were here at the same time they were students. They not only want to see their own class members but their other friends as well. Since this is the 25th reunion of the Class of 1927 they are extending a very special invitation to their old friends to be on hand to help them celebrate. Why not plan to return for a glorious week-end of relaxation and renewal of old friendships? I have a faint suspicion that members of the Class of 1907 are rummaging through their attics to see if they can find the outfits they wore at Lycoming in the good old days. We have an "historical room" in the new library, you know, so if you have anything on hand you think should find its place there, please bring it along.

You will be sent a reservation card in the near future which we hope you will fill out and return as soon as possible. It is necessary for you to return this card so that we may know how to plan and prepare for your coming.

Faithfully yours,
JOHN W. LONG, President

Memory of Julia
Trump Rich

Two gifts amounting to $40,000 have been given Lycoming College by Robert F. Rich, president of the board of directors in memory of his wife, Mrs. Julia Trump Rich, who died early last December.

One of the two gifts was an annuity in the amount of $25,000. It was payable at the death of Mrs. Rich and is to be added to the endowment funds of the college. The income will be devoted to furthering Christian education.

The second gift is the sum of $15,000 which Mr. Rich has directed shall be applied toward indebtedness on the John W. Long Library.

The large browsing room on the main floor of the new library is henceforth to be known as the Julia Trump Rich Memorial and will be appropriately marked with a bronze plaque.

The Rich family has been identified with the college for four generations and benefactions in excess of a quarter of a million dollars have come from them since the initial endowment fund campaign of 1903.

Choir News

This has proven to be an outstanding season for the A Cappella Choir of Lycoming. Twice top honors in the form of invitations have gone to this fine singing group this year. In March the choir provided a concert for the Northeastern Jurisdictional Conference of the Women's Society of Christian Service in Scranton, Pennsylvania. On June 13th the choir appears at the Northeastern Jurisdictional Conference of the Methodist Church in Harrisburg.

The extended spring concert carried the name of Lycoming once more into the Philadelphia area. The group appeared at the Holmesburg Methodist Church and St. Matthews Methodist Church in Philadelphia. On May the 4th alumni in the Baltimore area can hear the choir when they appear at St. Johns and Grace churches in this city.

Aside from the formal concert program, which is presented by our choir, a special promotional program is given as a service to high schools. Mr. Melver, using some of the lighter selections from the repertoire, offers a twenty to forty-minute program during the day. On the Philadelphia trip alone the choir sang ten such appearances.

Every year the reputation of Lycoming's choral group is growing as a result of their fine concert tours. If you would be interested in having the choir appear in your locality during the 1952-53 season, won't you write to the college for information as soon as possible?

From the Sport Files

By J. Earl Catanaugh

Coach Smith's basketeers, although green at the opening of the season, turned in a 16 and 6 record this year. Listed by the N.C.A.B. as 47th in the nation, the Lycos found two men taking honors in various departments. Vince Leta, sophomore forward, ranked 24th in the nation in individual scoring and was named to three all-opponent squads by Harpur, Kings, and Wilkes. Big George Fortner, freshman sensation, placed on two all-opponent second squads and ranked 15th in rebound leaders throughout the nation. The records show a well deserved round of applause is in order for Coach Smith and the men of the Warrior squad.

With spring springing we should be hearing the crack of the baseball bat but Easter vacation and an over-abundance of heavy dew has kept Lee Baer's nine indoors for some time now. Although the Lycos failed to register a win last year in the favorite national pastime, a number of returning veterans should change their luck. Al Yearick, an undergraduate former pro-ball player, has been appointed as assistant coach and between him and Coach Baer the Lycos should be off to a good year. The current season opens at home on April 24 with Juniata.

Coach Wargo's tennis squad hopes to again net another victorious season as the Lycos racketmen take to the out-of-doors. Going undefeated in seven tilts last season, Mike's boys will make only five appearances this year. They open April 19th at Elizabethtown, playing Juniata and Elizabethtown at home, and Harpur and Juniata away.

Digging into the bottom desk drawer we came up with an interesting item to close out our spring sports round-up. How many of you remember the Class of '02? Well, back when the Penn Relays were only youngsters (they celebrate their 59th birthday this year) a group of eager track men left Lycoming, pardon me—Dickinson Seminary, for Philadelphia. They came back and brought with them a cup inscribed "First prize of the Univ. of Penna. 8th Annual Relay Races 1902."

We don't know who they were but we know that they defeated Genesee, South Jersey Institute and West Chester Normal in a three-day meet. If you have any idea

Religion-in-Life Week at Lycoming

The week of March 24 was observed as Religion-In-Life week on the campus. Doctor S. Paul Schilling, professor of systematic theology at Westminster Theological Seminary, Westminster, Maryland, and Norman E. Detra, educational secretary for the Pennsylvania Temperance League were speakers during the week. Dr. Schilling was the main speaker and also met with students for personal conferences. Mr. Detra did classroom visitation and presented the alcohol problem from an academic standpoint to students. A Religion-In-Life committee composed of both students and faculty members arranged the program.

Virginia Herlt, '50
Succeeds Mr. Riley
